VOLUNTEER OF THE MONTH

By Elvira Valenzuela

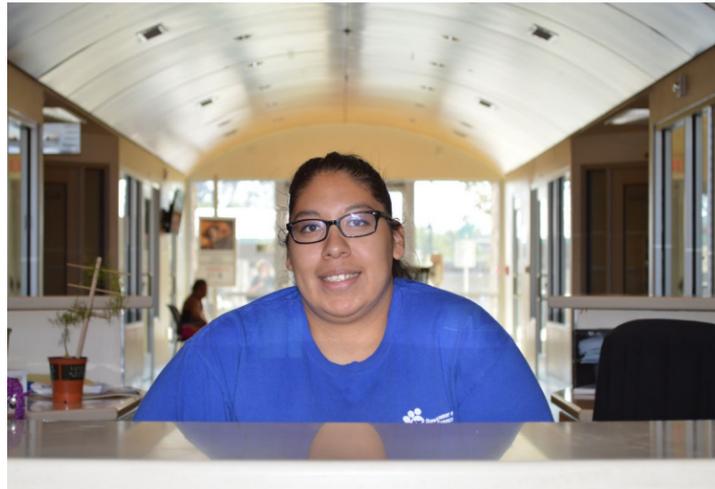

Jessica Garcia has been a volunteer for one year and two months and she has been a great asset to the shelter every time she is here! Jessica decided to volunteer for the Department of Animal Services because she hopes to be a Veterinarian one day.

She enjoys spending time with animals and likes helping them get adopted. Jessica is mostly at the Kiosk where she greets the customers and helps direct them to where they need to go. She enjoyed helping the Fiscal department where she filed paperwork, data entry, helped with the mail and organized shipping deliveries.

Jessica's most memorable moment is when she fostered a Chihuahua named Hershey. She got really attached that she got teary eyed when she had to bring him back because Hershey had gotten adopted.

Jessica has four dogs and one cat named Tiger. She has a Chow/German mix named Leo, and Rocky, Bruno, and Precious are all Chihuahua's. Jessica enjoys reading thriller and mystery books and she says one of her talents is drawings. Hopefully we will see her art entered at the next Arts for the Animals event.

Jessica's message to the volunteers is: Volunteering is a great opportunity to gain work experience and meet new people.

MEET THE EMPLOYEE

By Elvira Valenzuela

Peggy has been an employee for twenty one years and has enjoyed learning as much as possible to be able to promote. Peggy previous worked with an appliance store as an Accountant but unfortunately they went out of business.

She applied for the County of Riverside and was hired with the Department of Animal Services as an Office Assistant II. Peggy has had different duties in the shelter, such as, dispatching, front counter, making deposit, answering phones. She is now an Accounting Technician I and works in Fiscal department.

Her favorite part of working at the shelter is helping out at the events and would like to help with adoptions in the future. Peggy's hobby is restoring her 1966 Nova that she will hope to see one day at our event Park N Bark the shelter has once a year.

She enjoys this hobby with her husband. One of her most memorable moments while working at the shelter was when she was answering the phones and a constituent was calling to report a sighting of Big Foot up in Big Bear. Since the area was out of jurisdiction, she referred them to call Fish & Game and San Bernardino Animal Control.

Hiking Safety Tips

Looking to escape your hometown haunts for a wilderness hike? Don't forget your pooch! Dogs love to explore our country's vast natural resources as much their two-legged counterparts—not to mention, hiking is great exercise for all. But remember, a hiking trail isn't your average walk around the block. The ASPCA offers some helpful tips for keeping you and your pet safe and sound on your outdoor adventures.

Extending leashes are great for wide open spaces, but if your romp is taking you through wooded areas, it's best to leave the flexi-leads at home. Otherwise, you'll probably spend more time untangling your dog's leash from trees and brush than you will enjoying your walk!

If your pup is the trustworthy sort and you want to give him the opportunity to enjoy some untethered time on your hike, first make sure that dogs are allowed to be off-leash in the area you're exploring. Second, be sure that he responds reliably to your recall command—even the most obedient dog might bolt after some fascinating new critter.

Hard to believe, but not everyone is as enamored with dogs as we are! Some people get very nervous around unleashed dogs. As a courtesy, have a leash on standby to clip to your dog when encountering other hikers.

Whether you're using a leash or not, don't forget IDs, please! Always make sure that your current contact information, including your cell phone number, is attached to your dog's collar or body harness. If for any reason your pet gets lost, a collar and tags and a microchip will increase the likelihood that he or she will be returned to you.

You never know what you may encounter on a hike—so before setting out into the wilderness, check your pet's veterinary records and make sure his vaccinations are up-to-date.

Training tip: Teach your dog to come to you for treats whenever you pass by other hikers, especially if they have dogs, too. Your dog will learn to not interfere with passersby, and at the same time, you're ensuring he associates new people and dogs with good things, like tasty treats from you.

If a poop falls in the woods and no one else sees it, do you get a free pass? NO! There's no such thing as a victimless poop. Please have respect for your surroundings, native wildlife and fellow hikers by scooping up after your dog and toting the baggie back to civilization if there are no trash cans around.

Both of you need to stay hydrated, so bring enough water for two. Don't allow your pup to drink from puddles, ponds, lakes or streams—in other words, "nature's dog bowls"—as they may contain nasty parasites or toxins that could cause her harm.

When your hike is finished, give your pooch a thorough once-over for ticks and other creepy-crawlies. Pay special attention to her belly, ears, and any skin folds and crevices. If you do spot a tick, treat the area with rubbing alcohol and remove the parasite immediately by slowly pulling it off with tweezers. Be careful when removing a tick, as any contact with its blood can potentially transmit infection to your dog or even to you. Wash the bite area and keep an eye on it for the next few days—if irritation persists, contact your vet.
